My career until now has been in the frontlines of the welfare state. I now wish to apply my talents in a more strategic and analytical manner.

Areas of Interest

- Qualitative and quantitative research design, particularly document analysis and interviews.
- Social interactions, and their signifiers of meaning, both online and offline.
- Computer-assisted social research, in particular Natural Language Processing and Machine Learning.

Education

2020	Educational Sociology, Master of Arts (in progress) Århus University, Århus	Had a critical look at the state of Danish dis/ability policies, for instance the consequences of a documented existence and the justifications for a particular methodological approach. In addition, i explored computational sociology through an analysis of Instagram posts, in which I became acquainted with R and the tidyverse.
2012	Social Education, Bachelor of Arts University College Nordjylland, Aalborg	Specialized in citizens with disability, with a particular focus on the role of the practitioner. I am particularly pleased with my work on the necessity of action for the practitioner. People-work requires action - even inaction is an action. This, in turn, places great demands upon the practitioner's self-reflexivity, both as an episode unfolds as well as afterward.

Experience

2012–ongoing	Skovbo, Sødisebakke Social Worker Mariager	I work in an assisted living facility for adults with autism spectrum disorders and severe mental impairment. I have been an union representative, been part of citizen teams, and collated data from our journalling systems. Since June 2017 I have been working the night shift.
